HISTORIC HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE—A fire of undetermined origin damaged a residence at 306 Main St., Bay St. Louis Wednesday night, according to Andrew Lizana, fire chief. Lizana said an investigation is continuing into the origin of the fire as a 'hole' was burned through the floor under a couch. Lizana said, "We have been able to trace the origin of the house constructed with heart pine boards 'straight up and down' to 1812, and it has its original wiring still in use." Bay firefighters

Jim Gaudet, left, and Arthur Farve leave the house to get some fresh air. The house is owned by weekend resident Mrs. Evelyn Boyet of Bogalusa, La. and may have to be torn down, Lizana reported, because of the construction and amount of damage to the interior and attic. Some nine Bay firefighters were assisted by one unit from Waveland as Bay police controlled the traffic. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Trip fruitful says Wilcox

Prospect of World's Fair train 'Looks real good'

By JUNE M. HEYDT

Mississippi had quite a showing at the Washington, D.C. meeting between officials of the Louisiana-Mississippi-Alabama Rapid Rail Authority and Amtrak, said Delmer E. Wilcox, commission member.

Wilcox said that on Tuesday, the day before the meeting, another meeting took place in Washington between representatives from Senator John Stennis' staff, Thad Cochran's staff, and Trent Lott's staff.

He said, "The next morning members from each office attended the meeting with Amtrak to give their support.

"It was quite a showing," he said. "Amtrak was glad we came and several things were straightened out."

"Representatives from Lott's office made a speech and noted that six senators are solidly behind this project. Amtrak seemed quite impressed with the whole thing," Wilcox added.

"We made a very fruitful trip," Wilcox stated.

Amtrak representatives said they will need three more weeks before making a long-awaited cost projection for operating the train. "But," said Wilcox, "It looks real good."

Amtrak officials noted Wednesday that low urban speed limits, a major obstacle in their support for the proposed passenger train, have been removed.

A prime concern had been that train speed limits of as low as 25 mph in urban areas along the route would reduce the train's ability to compete with automobiles, Amtrak officials said.

However, letters given to Amtrak officials Wednesday from the mayors and city councils of all the communities along the route except Biloxi and Ocean Springs indicate a willingness to raise speed limits through their municipalities to at least 45 mph.

Wilcox noted that the feasibility phase is over and now Amtrak is studying the engineering end of the project.

Although the idea of a train from Alabama to New Orleans was originally proposed as a way of getting people to and from the World's Fair opening in New Orleans in 1984, the train will operate long after the fair is over, Wilcox speculated.

"Within the next five years the highways will be so crowded that a train will be needed to commute. Take for example the rapid transit systems in the large cities, if you were to take them away the cities would virtually be crippled," Wilcox continued.

"Just 20 years ago people were saying we didn't need super highways," said Wilcox, adding, "This is not just a play toy that's being talked about, it's a reality for the future."

Wilcox said that no decisions have been made yet as to whether the train will stop in Bay St. Louis or Waveland but said he hopes it will stop in both cities.

Supervisors to consider hangar building contract

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock Board of Supervisors Monday will consider County Port and Harbor Commission resolutions asking acceptance of a bid and change order to construct a second Stennis International Airport hangar building.

James DeBlanc, commission executive director, Friday confirmed he will present resolutions authorized at a Thursday night commission meeting which request acceptance of a $164,935 bid from Lester Chandler Construction Co. of Ocean Springs for the hangar project and a change order to reduce the project's cost by some $4,000.

If the project is approved by the supervisors Monday, the construction of the steel structure will begin within 30 days and the hangar is expected to be completed within three months, DeBlanc reported.

He said planes stored in the present hangar would be moved to the new 100-foot by 100-foot building and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's jet aircraft now parked outdoors would be parked under an adjoining steel shed also to be built in the project.

DeBlanc explained the existing hangar will be utilized by Bay Aviation, Inc. for aircraft engine repair.

The commission change order resolution calls for eliminating underground electrical wiring in 'rigid conduit' to the new hangar which DeBlanc said represented $5,000 of Chandler's bid.

In addition, Andy Ewing of Bay Aviation said his contract, in which the company will eventually repay the county for the hangar construction costs, only includes the building erection price and not the electrical service line.

After sharing ideas for installation of the electrical service line, the board agreed to utilize its employees to install the line underground in plastic conduit which DeBlanc said would cost about $1,000.

Mike Smith of Advanced Developments, Inc., a Bay St. Louis engineering firm, reported the Chandler bid was the lowest, about $12,000 under the next lowest quotation.

Magistrate OK's dismissal motion

Bay annexed residents to re-file lawsuit here

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

An attorney representing Bay St. Louis annexed area residents plans to re-file a $200 million lawsuit against the city Monday or Tuesday in Hancock County Chancery Court.

Herbert Wilson, a Gulfport attorney, said Friday he planned to meet later that day with annexed area citizens to plan a new course of action following a Thursday Federal District Court ruling to dismiss the class action suit.

John M. Roper, U.S. Southern District of Mississippi magistrate, at about 10 a.m. Thursday in Biloxi dismissed the class action suit on the basis that the federal court lacks jurisdiction in the matter, Wilson confirmed.

But Wilson said Roper 'dismissed the case without prejudice' which allows the action to be reintroduced to the Federal Court after review by state courts.

"All the judge said was we will have LAWSUIT—Page 6A.

Hospital answers ER policy critics

Hancock General Hospital Administrator Phil Langston late Friday issued a press release from the hospital taking issue with statements made in a Thursday Sea Coast Echo article on emergency room services at the Bay St. Louis facility.

Complete text of the hospital statement follows:

"The Board of Trustees, medical staff and employees of Hancock General Hospital disagree with the article published in the Thursday, June 9, edition of The Sea Coast Echo, entitled 'Injured Diamondhead residents directed to Gulfport hospital.'"

"This article was published without the hospital having time to investigate the incidents mentioned and respond fully."

"In reference to the Emergency Room incident concerning Prince Reynolds of Diamondhead, the patient was accepted into the Emergency Room, and voluntarily chose to have treatment at Keesler Air Force Base, rather than at Hancock General."

"Although Hancock General personnel offered to summon Mr. Reynolds an ambulance, he decided to leave via family transportation, and signed himself out against medical advice at that point. Upon his departure, Hancock General personnel called the Keesler Air Force Base Emergency Room and advised them of Mr. Reynolds and his stable condition."

"Also, in reference to the statements made by Ed Friloux concerning his personal difference with Hancock General Hospital, Mr. Friloux met with hospital administration on Wednesday, June 8, prior to the publication of The Sea Coast Echo."

"It was at this meeting that all differences were resolved. Therefore, we do not feel that these differences of opinion between Mr. Friloux and Hancock General Hospital needed the public attention given them on the front page of The Sea Coast Echo Thursday, June 9."

"Mr. Friloux has stated that he has high regard for the level of emergency services provided by Hancock General for the community."

"The Board of Trustees, medical staff and employees of Hancock General Hospital are committed to developing and building a first-class health care facility for the citizens of this community, and ask continued public support from the community for this endeavor."

Further comments by Ed Friloux on the article in question can be found in today's 'Letter To The Editor' columns, Page 4A.

Bottles out on Waveland sand beach

By ELLIS CUEVAS

An ordinance prohibits the use of glass containers on Waveland's sand beaches and it will be strictly enforced, according to Donald Dorn, chief of police.

Dorn said late Friday, "We have an ordinance prohibiting bottles on our beaches, yet people still seem to be using them. I have issued instructions to all of Waveland's patrolmen to enforce this law and issue citations to violators."

The ordinance calls for a $50 fine and another ordinance has the same fine for placing debris on the beach.

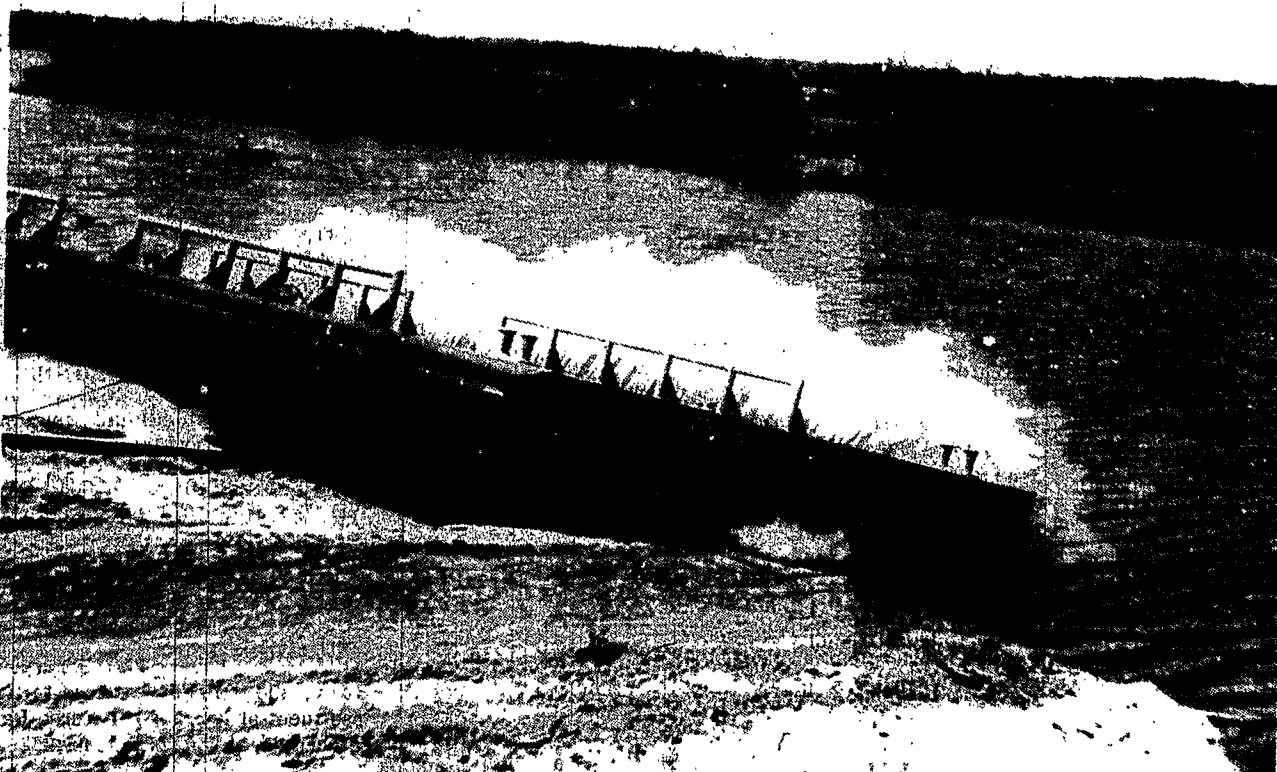

"Broken glass in the sand poses a continuing and serious threat to swim suit-clad and barefoot users of the beaches," Dorn emphasized.

"Another big problem also is the amount of trash left at the beach; it is getting out of hand and costs the taxpayers too much to clean up," Dorn indicated.

The chief continued, "We want to keep our beach clean, and not looking like a garbage dump."

"There are people living on the beach, they do not want it to look like a dump, and I agree with them," Dorn added.

Dorn stated, "We want everyone to enjoy themselves, yet also to follow all the laws."

BARGE LAUNCH—This 120 foot barge, constructed by Gulf Coast Fabrication, Inc. of Pass Christian for Exxon Company, U.S.A., is being launched into the water Thursday afternoon. The barge named Exxon 883 is the first of a series to be built for Exxon by the Pass Christian shipyard to be used in the Galveston Bay Area of Texas. It was the 23rd hull constructed at the shipyard which is in its third year of operation, with all deliveries being on time according to Dan Mortimer, president. The company engages in all types of marine construction and specializes in steel barges. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

THE MORMONS

Waveland Ward

Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints

By PATTY BALDREE

Ward Information Director

The Relief Society organization of the Waveland Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints will hold its monthly homemaking

meeting Wednesday at 10 a.m.

at the chapel located on

McLaurin Street and Nicholson Avenue.

A home management lesson

will be taught on "The Nutritionist in the Kitchen."

According to Irene Cuevas, home management teacher,

"The objective of this lesson is to increase our knowledge of nutrition and its use to improve our family's health."

Following will be three mini-classes on sewing gifts,

food dehydration, and house

cleaning and laundry tips.

These will be taught simultaneously by Rhonda

Sones, Lillian Sones, and Vickie Homer, respectively.

Lunch will be served and a nursery will be provided for the children between the ages of 18 months and five years.

The meeting is open to all interested women in the area and is free of charge.

HIGH COUNCILMAN

Alan Mulholland of the High Council of the Gulfport Stake of the church addressed the membership of the Waveland

Ward at a recent regularly scheduled sacrament

meeting.

Mulholland spoke on the Restoration of the Aaronic

Priesthood, an event which the Church has been recently commemorating worldwide.

"The Aaronic Priesthood is part of the Melchizedek

Priesthood," Mulholland said.

"It works under the direction of the Melchizedek

Priesthood."

"It was restored by John the Baptist under the direction of Peter, James, and John (the ancient apostles) who hold the keys of the high priesthood."

Mulholland further explained

"The Aaronic Priesthood prepares a young man to become Melchizedek

Priesthood holders. It is a period of growth."

He added that it is the responsibility of the parents of Aaronic Priesthood holders to take an active interest in their young man's priesthood activities, duties and responsibilities.

"If you don't, parents,"

Mulholland said, "his interest and enthusiasm will not grow.

We cannot expect that young child to become a great magnitude priesthood holder

overnight."

He explained that it is the bishop's responsibility to take the young man's desire to be a worthy priesthood holder and start it growing. Then after he is ordained, it is up to his parents to help him continue to grow as the youth grows and gains in experience.

In speaking directly to the youth, Mulholland said, "By honoring that priesthood,

young men and young women,

you can change the world the way the Lord wants it changed."

"It is the priesthood on earth that will give the principles and ordinances of the gospel that men will need to reach eternal life," he ex-

He then gave an example of a man with a watch. "With one watch," Mulholland said,

"he always knows what time it is. But give him two watches, and he is never quite sure of the exact time."

"If you wear the Aaronic

Priesthood on one hand and wear the worldly things that you think will progress you on the other hand, you'll never know which one is true," he continued.

"Throw away one, the worldly one, and see what time it is by the Aaronic clock.

It is time to gain eternal life."

Mulholland then bore his testimony to the importance of the Aaronic Priesthood in his life; and he again encouraged the parents of the Aaronic

Priesthood youth to continue to help their sons to grow in enthusiasm and knowledge for the powers and authority that they possess as priesthood holders.

Mulholland and his wife,

Emily, joined the Church in 1977. They are the parents of three sons, and presently reside in Biloxi.

Mulholland is a captain in the U.S. Air Force stationed at Keesler Air Force Base.

He received a BA degree in aeronautical engineering from Boston University and is in the process of earning a MA

degree in computer sciences from the University of Southern Mississippi.

Mulholland has served the church as a branch president while living in England, and as Sunday school president in Biloxi.

In addition to his position on the state high council where his primary assignment is in the area of leadership instruction, he is presently serving in the Biloxi Ward as a Sunday school teacher and as High Priest Group leader.

County Agent's Notes

By John Smith

Temporary Forage

Producers who need a high energy forage crop for grazing, green chop or a high tonnage hay crop, may want to consider planting a millet or sudan-sorghum hybrid, according to John W. Smith, County Agent.

Temporary summer crops are expensive to produce, so they are only suggested to fill a definite forage need. Most dairymen consider these crops a must for grazing or green chop. They work well for yearling cattle being carried into or over the summer.

When permanent pasture is short, limit grazing brood cows allowing calves full access through creep gates is successfully used by some cattlemen. Plant fields that are located so cattle can be limit grazed.

Three plantings will usually be needed to provide grazing across the summer. Make first planting as soon as possible, the second in late May and the third in late June. Plantings after mid-summer often produce poorly and insects always cause problems. A dairy cow will need at least one acre in three plantings. A beef cow will need at least one-half acre in three plantings where limited grazing can be used and some permanent pasture is available.

The sorghum-sudan hybrids produce the highest tonnage per acre, but require careful grazing management for the forage to be utilized when it is of the highest quality.

The sorghum-sudan hybrids are sensitive to acid soils but produce best on heavier textured soils. The cattail or pearl types of hybrid millet usually produce less tonnage per acre (near the same on very sandy soils) as the sorghum-sudans, but the forage is leafier and of high quality. Millet is suggested for young animals and producing dairy cows.

There are many good commercial and university developed varieties of summer annuals available. Select a variety that has produced well in your area for the class of livestock you plan to graze.

Fertilizer and Seeding Rates: These crops will produce poorly when the soil pH is below 5.8, so lime application is necessary if soil is acid. In absence of a soil test, apply approximately 50 lbs. of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash per acre (400 lbs. 13-13-13) at planting and topdress with 50-70 lbs. actual nitrogen after crop is grazed down, depending on the grazing desires.

Where hay or green chop is harvested from millet or sorghum-sudan hybrids, the rate of potash fertilizer should be doubled. Each ton of dry matter harvested will remove nearly 30 pounds of actual potash.

Plant 25 lbs. of seed broadcast for grazing or 35 lbs. for hay per acre. Seeded in 14-inch rows, 15 lbs. of seed per acre is satisfactory for grazing. To seed 14-inch rows, close alternate holes in a standard grain-drill.

Grazing Management

Delay grazing the sorghum-sudan hybrids until plants are at least 20 inches tall. It is desirable to let millet get about 18 inches tall before grazing, but millet can be grazed anytime it is needed.

Graze first planting until second is ready. First planting can be clipped to an 8-inch high stubble, then to-dressed with nitrogen. Closely grazing or clipping can severely reduce the amount of regrowth. Never allow these crops to produce seedheads as forage quality is greatly reduced with maturity.

Dairy cattle are usually grazed two hours morning and afternoon. Where cows are allowed overnight access, planted acreage must be increased. Steers or replacement heifers that are being grown out are often grazed daily until they get a fill or no more than one-half day and then moved to permanent pasture. It takes one-third to one-half additional acres of temporary pasture for full-time grazing, so limited grazing for brood cows is suggested. Calves should have full-time access through creep gates. Rotational grazing will increase forage consumed as it does on all pastures. When harvesting for hay, cut these crops in the early boot stage of growth.

Senior Citizens Happenings

By EVE McDONALD
COMING EVENTS

Our next games party will be on a Wednesday — June 29 — instead of Monday. We will be celebrating the May and June birthdays and Princess Fahey will be presenting gifts from Edmond Fahey Funeral Home. Peoples Federal Savings and Loan will provide the birthday cake.

Our American Legions from the Bay and Waveland and the DAV ladies auxiliary will provide cash prizes and our "eatin' prizes" will be furnished by Danny's Fried Chicken and The Eatery.

The Center will be closed Monday, July 4th for Independence Day. Hope all of you will have a good, safe weekend.

October 12 will be our Bazaar, so start saving things to "show and sell." So far we have not made any definite plans about lunches, but we will probably sell sandwiches for the coffee fund.

Now, really far in advance! We have set the Christmas Party for Dec. 16, a Friday. For a nice change, we will be serving a fried catfish dinner. Everyone around here seems to love seafood, so we thought we would try that for a Christmas treat. Naturally, we hope to have Bo and Deed provide us with that foot stomping music.

Inbetween these events we will have other birthday/games parties and our postponed picnic. More about them later.

MEDICAL TRANSPORTATION

We provide local medical transportation on Wednesday, Gulfport on Thursday, and Biloxi once a month. Please make your appointments early and advise Rosine.

We try to leave for Gulfport doctors no later than 10 a.m. and would like to have everyone home for lunch. We cannot take anyone with an appointment after 1:30 p.m. to Gulfport or Biloxi.

We encourage our seniors to patronize our local doctors as we think we have the best. Our local doctors and their staff have been most cooperative with our seniors and we are fortunate to be able to stay at home for health care.

The cost of providing transportation dictates that we try to coordinate appointments and eliminate long runs to the same area more than once a day. We do have a local cab company now that persons can call for special transportation.

NEW STAFF

We are fortunate in obtaining the services of Thaddeous Jackson as a senior aide. Jackson is a resident of Pearlinton and will be driving and helping at the center Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

No one replaces Rev. Hall, but Jackson is in his position and I am sure will all appreciate his services.

Zenobia Hawkins is our pretty, young, thin (!) CETA worker. She will be on our regular payroll in a temporary position as her CTA time runs out.

Zenobia is a resident of Waveland and already has a reputation around the center for her ability to clean up and make a room look like it!

We worked with us as a summer student one year and we are proud to have her now as driver and aide.

Our summer CETA workers will be arriving June 16. We look forward to having these young people for awhile this summer.

NUTRITIOUS SNACKS

Our home economist, Darlene Underwood, will provide a program at the center at 1 p.m., June 24, on nutritious snacks. Come see and taste!

Fancy phone owners can buy inside parts

South Central Bell has filed tariffs with the Mississippi Public Service commission to allow customers with in-place custom telephone sets to purchase the internal working parts of their sets for $29.50.

"Over the years, we've installed telephone apparatus in a variety of unusual housings for customers, ranging from antique boxes to cabinets," said Don Roberts, district manager, South Central Bell.

"We've also replaced the internal working parts of foreign or antique phones with new insides. Now these customers, who already own the outer casing, can purchase the internal equipment that they have been leasing," Roberts added.

Under the plan, the internal parts would carry a 30-day warranty. After the warranty expires, additional charges would apply for repair and handling.

With Mississippi Public Service Commission approval, the plan will go into effect June 27, 1983. Customers interested in purchasing their in-place custom telephone sets should contact their South Central Bell service representative.

Coast Chapter takes four of six awards

More than 700 persons attended the annual meeting of the Mississippi Chapter of the Telephone Pioneers of America in Biloxi June 3-4.

The two-day statewide annual assembly was held at the Royal d'Iberville Hotel. Business meetings, workshops and recreational events were highlight activities.

Incoming state officers are Bertie May Young, president; Hugh A. Sission, vice president; and Doris Kelly, secretary treasurer. The new Gulf Coast Council president is Paul Love, succeeding Ms. Melda Stuart.

The Pioneers organization is the largest social-industrial association in the world with 578,260 members throughout the United States and Canada. Members have 18 years or more of service in the telephone industry and they engage in hundreds of programs to aid physically, socially and emotionally handicapped persons, as well as promote fellowship and loyalty among telephone people.

This past year they exceeded 50,000 volunteer hours on various community services throughout the state.

The Mississippi Chapter is composed of local councils from Greenwood, Gulf Coast, Hattiesburg, Jackson, Meridian, Natchez and Tupelo.

The Gulf Coast Chapter serves Jackson, Harrison, Hancock and South Pearl River Counties.

Of the six major annual awards the Gulf Coast Council won four: Life Member Contact, Life Member Participation, Community Service and Over-all Participation.

The warm sunny weather has increased the activities at our beaches, and apparently some people do not realize the importance of following several ordinances regarding beach use.

For instance, there is an ordinance prohibiting the use of glass containers on both Bay St. Louis and Waveland beaches.

The ordinance banning glass containers is necessary to prevent serious injuries caused by cuts.

Broken glass on the beaches and in the water sends a lot of people to the hospital every year with cuts, many of which are quite serious.

We urge all beach users to please leave their glass containers home. Police will issue citations to violators.

While on the subject of beaches, there still seems to be many who forget to collect their trash after using our beaches.

It only takes a little effort to collect your empty containers before you return home, and then you can dispose of the debris properly.

Keeping our community clean is everyone's job, so please help!

A total of 48 units of blood were collected at the Blood Drawing held last Wednesday, according to J.D. (Big John) Rutherford, chairman.

We want to extend our appreciation to everyone who made a contribution at the drawing sponsored by the Hancock County Blood Bank.

There are many doctors, nurses, and volunteers who play an important role in making these blood drawings successful.

So, thanks to everyone.

Excessive tanning poses risk of skin cancer

(Presented as a public service by the Mississippi State Medical Association and The Sea Coast Echo.)

The evidence is clear that repeated and persistent exposure to sunlight can be one of the major factors in causing cancer of the skin in susceptible persons.

The Mississippi State Medical Association points out that skin cancer has long been an occupational hazard to the farmer, sailor and rancher. Ardent outdoor sportsmen and sun worshippers share the same risk.

Cancer of the skin occurs more often in the South and Southwest, areas noted for sunny climates. Skin cancer occurs most frequently on exposed parts of the body — face, ears, hands or neck. Skin cancer occurs more often in light-skinned than in dark-skinned persons.

Excessive sunlight ages the skin.

Years of overexposure to the sun will result in leathery texture, wrinkles, skin folds and sagging skin. Blotchy pigmentation will replace desired tan. Dermatologists (medical skin specialists) recommend the regular use of sunscreens and agents by outdoor workers and others who continually expose themselves to the sun.

Commonly used drugs such as antibacterial agents in medicated soaps, drugs to control high blood pressure, oral anti-diabetic drugs, some tranquilizers and some antibiotics can cause the skin to become photosensitive to sunlight. The skin may burn on even slight exposure. These individuals must avoid direct sunlight as much as possible, and wear long-sleeved garments and wide-brimmed hats when out of doors.

Diamondhead official, hospital administrator resolve problems with emergency room policies

June 10, 1983
Editors
The Sea Coast Echo

Gentlemen,
For the past several years I have been involved with the emergency services in Hancock County.

I have seen these services go from an almost non-existent emergency medical system to one of the finest in the county.

The field emergency medical services — rescue squads and ambulances — have had and still have excellent cooperation and assistance from the emergency room physicians and nurses at Hancock General Hospital.

My problems with Hancock General Hospital have been basically of clerical nature involving insurance and bill payments.

As of a meeting late Wednesday, June 8, 1983, between Hancock General Hospital Administrator Philip Langston and me, the insurance problems concerning me, the rest of the Purcell Corporation employees and our insured dependents have been satisfactorily resolved.

In addition, at this meeting I was given assurance that no emergency medical treatment will be denied anyone going to the emergency room at Hancock General Hospital because of an inability to pay.

Citizen supports Bay mayor's veto of drainage study expenditure

The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor,

After all the rain we have been having lately, I'm wondering how many of our councilmen are checking our drainage problems, and I do mean problems all over town, before they throw away $38,000 for one more survey, one more map.

Anyone knows water doesn't run up hill nor does it run in ditches filled with weeds and debris.

Have you ever seen our town so dirty

as it is today? What is wrong, don't people care anymore?

Well I do and I trust we can get a group together to start a clean-up drive. We could do an awful lot with $38,000. We don't need anymore engineers to tell us how to spend money, the city doesn't have to begin with.

So I'm all for Mayor Bennett on that score.

I love Bay St. Louis, hope you will tell others we do care. It's home.

Sincerely,

Common Cause urges citizens to contact supervisors on county unit system issue

To the Editor:

Between now and July 1, citizens of Mississippi have an opportunity to urge their Boards of Supervisors in each county to change from the old "beat" system to the more efficient and cost-saving county unit system for road repairs.

Most of Mississippi's 82 counties use the "beat" system, which gives each of the five supervisors in a county individual responsibility for the beat or district from which he or she is elected. This means five separate road crews and sets of equipment. The inefficiency of this system has been well documented.

The logical alternative is the county unit system, in which road repair within the county is centralized. Under this system, there is often a county manager appointed by the Board of Supervisors and responsible for coordinating road work and other countywide activities. Counties which have gone to this more efficient system have found that the cost of road repair has fallen dramatically. Coahoma county has proved, over a 10-year experience with the unit system, that it is cost-effective. Whereas the average cost of county road maintenance increased by 91 percent for the counties in the state under the "beat" system, the cost increased by only 46 percent in Coahoma County.

Studies by the Mississippi Economic Council have pointed to the need for a unit system in the interest of reducing the cost of road repairs in Mississippi, which ranks first in the nation in percentage to funds spent for county roads—a dubious distinction.

Why don't all Boards of Supervisors go to the more efficient system? Because of a long tradition of the "beat" system, which gives each supervisor his own territory within the county. This decentralization, a relic from the horse-and-buggy days, is costly and ill-suited to today's road systems.

What can citizens do about this? In 1891, the Legislature passed a law requiring that by July 1, 1983, Boards of Supervisors must either change to a unit system or vote to maintain a district ("beat") system, explaining in the minutes their reason for doing so. Between now and July 1, taxpayers can contact their supervisors by phone and letter, making our opinions known and insuring that they understand that we will be monitoring and holding them accountable for their decisions.

Changing to the county unit system may be the biggest favor supervisors can do for county taxpayers.

Sincerely,
Roberta Madden

ALLIED UNITY ON DISPLAY

Leaders of seven industrialized nations had the chance to sit down together not long ago in the Virginia countryside, talking both formally and privately about problems they must face jointly.

I have had people ask me whether the conference at Williamsburg, a community about 75 miles south of Washington, served a useful purpose on whether it was just another of those periodic meetings which produce few results.

It is important that the leaders of the industrialized world communicate with each other so that unity can be exhibited in the face of any threat, particularly that posed by the Soviet Union.

There were three areas of concentration in the Williamsburg conference in which I feel that real progress was made, and I would like to explore each of them a little more fully.

One was the world economy. The leaders discussed the need to coordinate efforts to beat inflation, high interest rates and other problems. We in the United States must realize that what happens to our economy has a direct impact on the economies of Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany, Canada and Japan.

At the same time, the things they do in their own countries will affect Americans.

A second issue coming out of the conference involved a further statement by our allies that there should be deployment of the Pershing II and cruise missiles in Europe to offset the Russian SS 20 and other missiles.

The Europeans are on the front lines of this issue and if they stick to their guns they can succeed in forcing the Soviet Union to join the United States in proposing meaningful reductions in nuclear arms. I thought this statement was a very positive one, since there are elements in Europe which oppose deployment.

The third issue was very significant, too, and involved world trade.

Many Americans feel that some of our allies have been taking advantage of our free trade attitude in the U.S. We have been reluctant to get into the matter of protectionism because it can hit hard at many elements of American life, such as farming.

We need to try to take down the barriers in other countries which block our products. At the same time, we should not be putting up barriers of our own.

So, yes, I would say to the questions over the conference's success, it is a good idea to sit down with your allies. Personal conversations are an excellent way to make sure your message is received loud and clear.

FREE ENTERPRISE EDUCATION

Within a few weeks a select group of public and private school teachers will be gathering at Gulf Park College on the Mississippi Gulf Coast for an intensive week of free enterprise education.

Then, in the fall and through the next school year these same teachers will be leaving their own classrooms from time to time, carrying the message of free enterprise to other teachers across the state.

Operations of this type have been going on for four years now, with some 5,000 Mississippi teachers having received specialized instruction both in the principles of the free enterprise system and in techniques of instilling those principles in their students.

All this is part of the broad economic education work of the American Enterprise Center, a free enterprise education effort of the Mississippi Economic Council.

The teachers selected for special summer instruction serve during the year as special instructors in on-campus workshops for both elementary and secondary teachers throughout the state, from public and private schools.

The Center recently retained an independent evaluation team to measure the merits of the free enterprise education efforts, and the results were significant: teachers who have been through the American Enterprise Center-sponsored courses have a better understanding of free enterprise than do teachers who have not received the training; and students of teachers who have trained under the American Enterprise Center have a better understanding of the free enterprise system than do students of teachers who have not participated in the training.

Results of the test scores should encourage local school boards and school administrators to be sure their teachers are involved in the free enterprise work of the Mississippi Economic Council.

Proponents, opponents of decentralizing Parchman both present sound arguments

The following article is the result of a project funded by the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities to the Mississippi Press Association. The opinions expressed are those of the author and not those of either organization.

Prisons and Beyond
By COLUMBUS HOPPER
Sociology
The University of Mississippi

Perhaps no other single topic has received as much attention in Mississippi as has prisons. For the last year, there has been almost continuous coverage of the legislative controversy over where new prison units should be built.

While there are accompanying issues, the opinions boil down to those who want regional facilities and those who prefer that the word "prison" in Mississippi be synonymous with Parchman.

Reasonable arguments support both points of view. That is to say, intelligent individuals of good will can be found on either side, and no single view is superior to the other.

Those who want imprisonment to be exclusively at Parchman argue for the efficiencies of concentration.

They believe that one large complex can offer more programs and better security.

They point to the fact that most communities in the state do not want to have a prison situated within their borders. This group wants all of the "bad apples" to be in one large barrel.

The other camp contends that decentralization is more in keeping with modern correctional thinking. They perceive a need for regional prisons which can offer specialization and better serve the citizens within different areas of the state.

Just as we need more than one university or hospital, so do we need more than one prison, the advocates of decentralization claim.

They particularly cite a need for units close by the larger population centers from which most inmates come and where staff members can be found.

The current clash of opinions is not new. Mississippi has never been completely settled on the matter of its prison system.

The first state prison in Mississippi was opened on April 15, 1840, in Jackson on the grounds now occupied by the state capitol. Prior to that time, the detention of convicts had been the responsibility of each county.

During the years 1840 to 1847, only 220 convicts were sent to the Jackson prison which was also known as "East Prison" or "The Walls," but it was overcrowded by 1852.

In 1858, the legislature appropriated five thousand dollars to add another tier of cell blocks to the prison.

The inmates worked in the making of brick, at mechanical trades, and in the manufacturing of coarse cotton fabrics and bale rope.

The Civil War brought disorganization to the Mississippi prison system as it did to all phases of life in the state. For a while authorities attempted to continue the prison's operation, but they finally abandoned it.

Some inmates were sent to Alabama, others were pardoned and mustered into the army of the Confederacy, while still others were distributed to county jails or simply turned out without pardon.

The prison in Jackson then became a munitions factory for the Confederacy and was used as such until it was destroyed by General Sherman's men on May 17, 1863.

After the war, Mississippi turned to the practice of leasing its convicts to private companies. However, this proved to be an unsatisfactory penal practice.

As a result of abuses, especially between 1885 and 1888, the prison system became the dominant issue in elections and legislative proceedings.

Consequently, the new state constitution adopted in 1890 provided that after 1894 the leasing of prisoners would be unlawful.

The same constitutional convention laid the framework for a penal plantation system by authorizing the succeeding legislature to select land for a penitentiary farm where convicts could be detained and worked under the supervision of penal authorities.

The first prison farms were located in Rankin, Hinds, and Holmes counties.

In 1900, appropriations were made for the purchase of the large Parchman plantation in Sunflower County.

Since that time, the word Parchman has meant prison to a Mississippian.

Parchman inmates farmed in a big way the first 70 years of the 20th century, sometimes making a profit for the state, but always living under conditions which were declared cruel and unusual in 1972.

Since then, officials have struggled to develop a correctional system which will serve the people of Mississippi and meet the specifications laid down by a Federal Court.

Clearly, the current "site debate" is part of a broader problem, prison reform. Everyone recognizes that Parchman can never return to the old days, and all agree that new facilities must be built. The question is where they will be constructed.

Even more important than the location of building sites is the number of prisoners. Mississippi must avoid the mistake of looking to imprisonment as the main answer to the crime problem.

No state can afford to build enough prisons to lock up every felon. Even states as wealthy as Texas and California have reached the limits of their economic resources, trying to provide a cell for every criminal.

Ultimately, Mississippi and all other states must turn to restitution programs and other forms of community corrections.

A need for confinement will continue, but it is becoming increasingly apparent that prisons must be used only for the worst offenders.

If we spend all our resources building prisons, education and other vital services will be neglected.

This, in turn, will produce more criminals. It is ironic, indeed, to attempt a solution which in itself makes the problem worse.

QUALIFYING COMPLETE—Marsha Ashworth, secretary for the Hancock County beat redistricting effort, and Charles Gottschalk, District Five election commissioner and commission secretary, now have a complete list of candidates running in the August primary. The doors closed to the offices of the circuit clerk on Friday afternoon at 5 p.m., also closing the last day for qualifying. (Staff photo by June Heydt)

State teachers group endorses Gandy

The Mississippi Association of Educators (MAE), the largest teachers organization in the state, has announced its endorsement of Miss Evelyn Gandy for governor.

"Miss Gandy has a proven track record for her support of public education," Mary E. Gates, president of the 13,000 member MAE, told a group of reporters at a news conference Wednesday.

"As lieutenant governor, Miss Gandy took consistently strong stands for such measures at the 16th Section Land Reform, which provides more money for public education, and a strong compulsory attendance law," Gates continued.

Announcement of the endorsement culminates a process whereby MAE/PAC, the political action arm of MAE, evaluated responses in personal interviews and written questionnaires from all of the gubernatorial candidates.

The final decision to support Gandy came from an overwhelmingly favorable vote from delegates of the MAE Representative Assembly, its governing body, according to Gates.

A $2,000 check was given to Gandy at the news conference as part of the support MAE/PAC will be lending in her race for governor, he said.

"MAE, through its membership, will now reach into every county and community in the state to give Miss Gandy the support she needs to assure her victory," stated Tony Rollins, MAE executive secretary.

MAE has organized local political action committees, made up of teachers in every county, ready to work as volunteers in support of their endorsed candidate, Rollins told newsmen.

MAE officials said at the news conference that Gandy's political experience will aid in fully implementing the recently passed Education Reform Act, a measure for which MAE strongly lobbied during the December, 1982 Special Session of the Legislature.

Speaking at the news conference held at the MAE headquarters in Jackson, Gandy said, "I'm extremely happy to get the support of an organization such as MAE that has shown its dedication to improvement in Mississippi schools."

"Improved education in Mississippi is essential to the economy of the state and to the quality of life of all our citizens," she added.

Henderson Point wreck injures Bay resident

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Bay St. Louis man apparently escaped serious injury after the motorcycle he was riding on US-90 in the Henderson Point area Thursday afternoon collided with a pickup truck.

Charles Vincent Jr., 22, of 301 St. Francis St. was in Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis and listed in good condition with abrasions and contusions to the right elbow and left knee, Mary Perkins, hospital public relations director, reported Friday.

She said Vincent was being held at the hospital for observation, but he might be released later that day.

Trooper Harold Holder of the State Highway Patrol reported at the accident scene that Vincent was apparently traveling east on US-90 when he struck the left rear fender of a pickup truck driven by Martin Morreale, 36, of P. O. Box 29, Bay St. Louis, traveling north across the Ponce de Leon Boulevard intersection which is immediately east of the Bay of St. Louis bridge.

Holder said no citations would be issued until completion of his investigation.

Vincent was taken by Mobile Medic to the hospital.

Assisting Holder at the accident scene were officers of the Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian Police Departments and Seymour Lacoste Wrecker Service of Kiln.

CHOREOPOEM

"For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Suicide—When the Rainbow Is Enuf," the "choreopoem" with music and movement distilled from the personal vision of Ntozake Shange, has an encore on "American Playhouse" at 10 p.m., Friday, June 17, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

The production intimately involves the audience in the lives of American black women, their pain, terror, warmth and, ultimately, their love. Ms. Shange's women come from Detroit, Houston, Charleston, Harlem, San Francisco and St. Louis and from various socio-economic backgrounds. They represent the broad spectrum of the black woman's experience in America, and in the course of the telecast, these women also uncover some universal truths about living and loving.

The cast is composed of seven performers: Ms. Shange, Trazana Beverly, Laurie Carlos, Crystal Lilly, Carol Lynn Maillard, Lynn Whitfield and Alfre Woodard.

to exhaust all state court remedies. He wants to let the Chancery Court enforce its own decree and see if something is wrong," Wilson stated.

On April 18, 1976 the County Chancery Court ordered the city to install gas, water and sewage lines and lighting within five years which the city "has not yet done," the annexed area residents' original Federal Court suit documents state.

Wilson said Roper agreed with a motion filed by Joseph Gex, city attorney, which includes "...the complaint fails to state a claim against the City of Bay St. Louis," and "does not allege any deprivation of a right."

Regarding the decision, Gex said Friday, "We're tickled to death."

Bay St. Louis city councilmen, several of whom are named in the suit, were jubilant at the news of Roper's decision conveyed to them by City Clerk Edward Favre at a council meeting Thursday night.

Wilson said he was asked to take over the case about one week ago. Attorney Billy Gibson of Bay St. Louis filed the original federal suit for the annexed residents.

Plaintiffs listed in the Federal Court documents are Dr. A.K. Martinolich, Robert Heitzmann, Charles Hirstius, Michael M. Harris and Norma B. Favre.

Defendants include the City of Bay St. Louis; Mayor Larry Bennett; Councilmen Gene Taylor, Wilmer Seymour, James Thriffliey III and Harry Favre; and Tax Collector Estelle Johnson.

Voter registration hours extended

By EDGAR PEREZ

The Hancock County Circuit Clerk's office will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, July 2 for voter registration.

Circuit Clerk Jerry Heitzmann said the extended hours are offered as an opportunity for residents who work during his office's normal hours to register in time to vote in the Aug. 2 primary.

Registration deadline for the Aug. 2 election is 5 p.m. July 2, Heitzmann added.

In addition, the clerk's office hours will be extended from 8 a.m. to noon on Saturday, July 23 and Saturday, July 30 to assist absentee voters, and again on the two Saturday mornings preceding the Aug. 23 Runoff Election and the Nov. 8 General Election.

"Absentee balloting is closely regulated by state law and those wishing to cast absentee ballots must fulfill a number of specific requirements and conditions in order to vote in this manner," Heitzmann explained.

Regular hours of the circuit clerk's office are from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Pollution agency eyes Waveland waste system

By JUNE M. HEYDT

Ray Eaton of Lewis and Eaton Partnership, Architects, Engineers and Planners, reported on the progress of the 201-208 Plan to upgrade facilities of the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District at a district meeting Wednesday night.

Eaton told the district's board of directors that the Bureau of Pollution Control has a full-time man working to study and revise the plan.

As soon as BPC revises the Gulf Regional 208 plan a public hearing will be held on final plans and costs.

Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr., board chairman said the Lakeshore Community has proposed to tie into the district's sewage system.

Barry Richardson, operations and maintenance at the Waveland plant, brought a report for Eaton on the pumps used at the plant.

Richardson noted that if all the pumps used at the plant are the same that it would be much easier to replace and repair the parts.

FARM SAFETY

During our spring rush, farmers should be more aware of a problem that affects all farmers and workers. Fifty farmers are killed yearly in farm work accidents. Few other occupations will compare in loss of life, physical disability, medical cost, equipment damage, and other losses.

About one out of 10 farms in Mississippi will have an accident. Over 4,000 accidents, costing more than 4 million dollars in losses, are expected this year. Tractor overturns, runovers and roadway accidents account for most deaths. Field machinery, augers, and power take off drive equipment permanently injure hundreds each year. Accidents while repairing or adjusting machinery, working livestock, electrical shocks, falls, and pesticide poisonings are often threats to the farm worker.

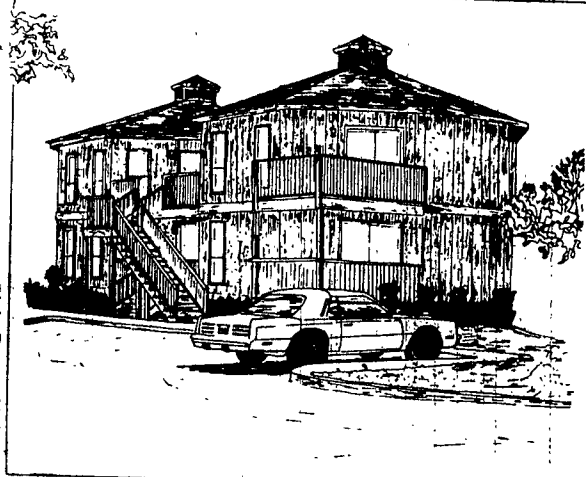

Follow the many farm safety recommendations that are with operation manuals and signs on equipment. Use the seat belts on ROPS equipped tractors and follow the signs on the tractor to avoid rollovers. Do not allow children on tractors or in work areas or fields.

Read pesticide labels for safety precautions. Good shop or animal handling facilities and training workers will help avoid accidents. Most accidents happen when a breakdown occurs or you get in a rush. One example is turning too fast on the turnrows. This causes tractor overturns. During these problem times, take the time to use safety.

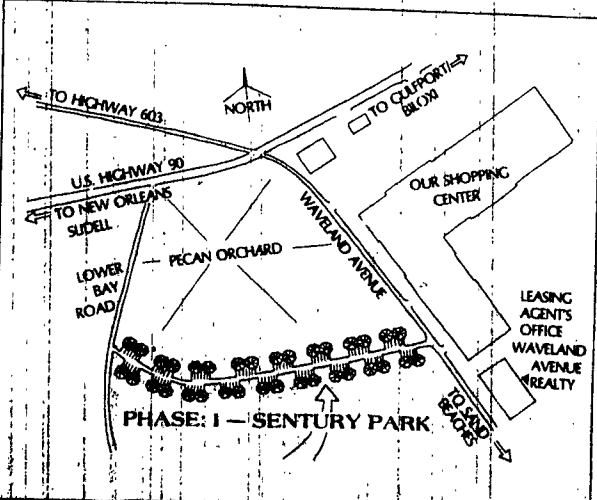

Repair, unclog or get pulled out of a stall.

Many accidents can happen on the farm and do. To avoid these, get more safety information from your County Extension Office and use it.

Bay banker to direct MEC drive

A Bay St. Louis bank official has been named to direct a special membership effort for the Mississippi Economic Council in this area.

The council, the state's largest association of business and professional leadership, will be involved in a statewide effort to expand its membership over the next six weeks.

James Ginn, vice president and manager of Hancock Bank's US-90 branch, has been named to head the effort in this county.

John Lovorn, a Tupelo business executive, is chairman of the statewide program; and Charles Sewell, a Jackson bank executive, is general chairman of the council.

"The council is celebrating its 35th year of service to Mississippi and to Mississippians," Ginn said. "We believe this is an appropriate time to invite other businesses and other business leaders to become involved in our work."

The council, which has some 3,000 members statewide, is involved in efforts to improve the state economically, specializing in areas as education reform, taxation, labor relations, resource development, and free enterprise education.

"All Mississippians interest in the advancement of our state are invited to join us in this work," said Ginn. Individuals and business firms interested in MEC membership may contact Ginn or the MEC office in Jackson at (601) 969-0022.

RETURN OF THE JEDI

At the end of the last episode, "The Empire Strikes Back," Han Solo had been frozen in a slab of silver carbonite. Luke Skywalker had his hand amputated by Darth Vader's light-saber.

Princess Leia's small colony of defiant rebels was near defeat. And Artoo-Detoo and See-Threepio were, as always, in a terminal state of confusion.

But don't panic because all of the questions are answered in the third and final film in the "Star Wars" series, "Return of the Jedi."

George Lucas, the director/producer of this high camp outer space adventure series, has spun another blockbuster of fast paced fun.

Richard Marquand, who directed the taunt thriller, "Eye of the Needle," directs this version of "Star Wars" from a script furnished by Lucas and Lawrence Kasdan.

In addition, all of the favorite characters are still in place and played by the people who made them famous: Luke - Mark Hamill, Leia - Carrie Fisher, Han - Harrison Ford, and Darth - David Prowse (with voice-over by James Earl Jones).

"Jedi" begins like its predecessors, on the open run. As soon as the preface words fade into distant space, John Williams' triumphant musical score begins, signaling the start of another round of lasers and chases and aliens and laughter.

The opening sequences are great fun, with Jabba the Hutt (Han's captor) slobbering and devouring strange-looking creatures out of a nearby ac-quarium while playing Roman emperor with a cast of mutants.

Soon our heroes are united over a hole in the desert where they are to be thrown and then digested over the next 1,000 years.

Chases and fights abound and the tension mounts as our favorite team of freedom fighters is sent on still another mission. On a distant planet, they find a band of Ewoks, which are small, furry bear-like creatures who are tenacious and lovable.

If there is a drawback to this film, it is the middle portion which resembles a soap opera in space. There is too much dialogue (supposedly because all the questions must be answered) and too much standing around.

In the previous "Star Wars" films, nothing was ever questioned...the characters simply did what they thought needed to be done — right or wrong.

Then they spent the next few minutes getting out of tight places, whether it be an unfriendly space bar or a compacting garbage room or the clutches of Darth Vader.

In "Jedi" the characters say, "What are we going to do now?" a few times too often.

Still, for the entertainment that "Jedi" provides, it is a hard will to fault. And the chases on the high-speed land cruisers coupled with the rebel forces attacking the newly-renovated Death Star, are pure back-straightening excitement.

"Return of the Jedi" has set records for attendance in a single day and the hopes are that it surpasses "Star Wars" box office take, which is approximately $524 million.

"Jedi" contains unbelievable special effects, all of which look surprisingly real. And for all those folks who have waited since 1977 (the year "Star Wars" was released) to find out what happens at the end, "Return of the Jedi" will do very little to disappoint you. "Return of the Jedi" has been rated PG and will probably be playing a local theater until well into 1984.

McLean, Koch wed in afternoon ceremony

Our Lady of the Gulf Church was the setting for the May 21 wedding of Laurie Renee Koch of Bay St. Louis and Robert Cochran McLean of Littleton, Col. Rev. Henry McInerney officiated at the 2 p.m. double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Raymond and Mary Lou Koch of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are David and Joanna McLean of Littleton, Co.

Arrangements of white gladioli, poms, carnations and pink snapdragons adorned the altar. Palm greenery and satin ribbon bows completed the decorations.

Scripture readings were rendered by the groom's father and Krissy Koch, sister of the bride. Offertory gifts were presented by Alfred Schwarz, grandfather of the bride, and Mark Koch, brother of the bride.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Olive McKenna, organist, and Mrs. Lana Noonan, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of Wedgewood lace and point d'esprit with Victorian bodice enhanced with venise lace, embroidered drop-shouldered yoke, high wedding band collar and bishop sleeves. The full bouffant skirt with cathedral train was of ruffled Wedgewood lace. She wore a wreath of silk roses with an attached fingertip veil of illusion.

She carried a modified cascade of white silk roses, lily-of-the-valley and pale pink flowers with baby's breath and satin picot ribbon.

Mrs. William (Suzi) Hand attended the bride as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Gerri Koch of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.; Kathie Koch and Krissy Koch of Bay St. Louis, sisters of the bride.

The attendants were identically attired in formal gowns of pink silesta fashioned with chiffon overlays on the blouson styled bodices, V-necklines and gently flared skirts. They carried hand-painted fans arranged with pink silk roses, forget-me-nots and satin ribbon streamers.

Edward E. Buttingham of Baltimore, Md. served the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Sean P. O'Reilly of Philadelphia, Pa.; Vivek Kavard of Houston, Texas; and John McLean of Littleton, Col., brother of the groom.

Mark Allen Koch, USN stationed in San Diego, Calif., brother of the bride, was usher.

The bride's mother chose for the occasion a formal gown of silesta featuring sunburst pleated skirt, fitted bodice and chiffon capelet in an orchid hue. The mother of the groom was attired in a gown of soft blue crepe with jewelneckline, long sleeves and vertical pleating. Orchid corsages completed their ensembles.

A reception followed the ceremony at Christ Episcopal's Virginia Hall.

Arrangements of pink and white blossoms and greenery decorated the reception tables. The tiered wedding cake was decorated with delicate tulle puffs and sugar roses and was topped with a hand decorated double ring ornament designed by Mrs. Maxine Garner, godmother of the bride.

Assisting at the reception were Stacie Comeaux of Waveland; Martha Burton of Newton, Ms. and Mrs. Maxine Garner of Slidell. Rice bags were distributed by Brooke Schultz and Marie Schultz of Bay St. Louis.

For traveling to Acapulco, Mex., the bride chose a three tiered white chiffon dress accented with soft lavender flowers and white accessories.

The couple will reside in Houston, Tx.

Out-of-town guests included

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Pfaff of Park Ridge, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. William McLean of Fort Ord, Calif.; Kirk Brunch of Denver, Col.; David McLean of Seattle, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schwarz of Hutchinson, Kan.; Mrs. Dottie Harnes of Wichita, Kan.; and Mrs. Ann Fackenthal of Seattle, Wash.

A family dinner was hosted at the Koch home following the reception and was attended by relatives, wedding party members and out-of-town guests.

OLG the setting for Robinson, Tyner vows

Toinette Ann Tyner became the bride of Paul Yerger Robinson in an afternoon ceremony May 14 at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church with Rev. Walter Bracken, STD officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hosie B. Parker Jr. of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Robinson, also of Bay St. Louis.

Arrangements of spring flowers adorned the main altar and sanctuary, which was enhanced by palm greenery.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. John McKenna, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of sheerganza and chantilly lace fashioned with Queen Anne neckline outlined with re-embroidered lace and seed pearls, full bishop sleeves with lace cuffs. Her full, bouffant skirt featured a shirred and scalloped overlay revealing a deep ruffle of chantilly lace at the hemline and swept to a chapel train. She wore a tiered, scalloped veil of illusion appliqued with chantilly lace and held in place by a lace Juliet cap. She carried a nosegay of daisies and sweetheart roses with satin ribbon streamers.

Tammy Pearl Amacker of Poplarville attended the bride as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Susan Robinson of Bay St. Louis, sister of the groom; Mary Gene Hoeschen and Brenda Howard of Picayune.

The attendants were attired in formal gowns of sheerganza in pastel shades with portrait necklines and fitted waistlines. The hemlines featured a double ruffled border that was caught up in a bustle at the back. They wore picture hats designed by the bride in colors to match their gowns, and carried nosegays of daisies and baby's breath with matching ribbons.

Misses Robin Bradley of Port Gibson, Miss. and Melissa Parker of Sugarland, Tex., nieces of the groom, were flower girls. They wore pastel pink dresses topped with white eyelet pinafores and trimmed with embroidered lace. Headbands were of pastel pink flowers and they carried baskets of rose petals.

Ronald E. Hall of Bay St. Louis served the groom as best man.

Groomsmen were Rucks Robinson of Gautier and Michael Robinson of Mobile, Ala., brothers of the groom; and Daniel Henry of Gautier, nephew of the groom.

The mother of the bride chose for the occasion a street length dress in copen blue with ruffled chiffon bodice and capelet sleeves over silesta, with softly flared skirt and matching accessories.

The groom's mother was attired in a mauve georgette dress featuring three-quarter length sleeves, ruffled neckline and straight skirt enhanced with a self-tie belt and matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white sweetheart roses.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home and garden of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Dittmar of Waveland. Spring floral arrangements decorated the serving tables.

Mrs. Ronald Hall of Bay St. Louis kept the guest register and Mrs. Joyce Ladner, aunt of the bride, presided at the punch bowl.

For traveling to Orlando, Fla., the bride chose a white linen suit with multi-colored blouse and matching accessories.

The couple will reside in Hattiesburg, where the groom is a student at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. William Bradley, Robin, William and Chase Bradley of Port Gibson; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Parker, Matthew and Melissa Parker of Sugarland, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Robinson of Mobile, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Henry and Mr. and Mrs. Rucks Robinson, Timothy and Andy Robinson of Gautier; Mrs. Lydia O'Mara of Biloxi and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Yerger of Ocean Springs.

Also Robert Yerger of Mobile; Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Fabacher, Mr. and Mrs. William Tickle and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Joyner of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. Steve McComb of Spring, Tex.; Larry Wayne Pigott of Picayune.

The Robinson home on Sunset Drive in Bay St. Louis was the setting for the rehearsal dinner on the eve of the wedding.

The semi-circular gored skirt was bordered with a lace ruffle and had a chapel-sweep. She wore a wreath of silk blossoms detailed with chiffon and lace florets which held a fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a traditional bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, phalaenopsis orchids, lemon blossoms, plumeria, and English ivy.

apricot taffeta, featuring schiffilli embroidered yoke and collar and bishop sleeves. Apricot satin ribbons encircled their waistlines. They wore coronets of baby's breath in their hair and carried old-fashioned bouquets of sonia roses, stephanotis, alstromeria, mini-carnations and baby's breath entwined with ivy and apricot bow knot ribbons.

Mrs. Eagan, mother of the bride, wore a pale mint green georgette patio length dress with a ruffle at the neck and box pleated skirt.

Hancock Women's Club hears Library Friends' '84 schedule

Members of the Hancock County Women's Club Thursday morning heard a briefing on what Friends of The Hancock County Library System do and what their goals are as well as a summary of programs planned for the 1983-84 year beginning with the September meeting.

Joe Pilet, who serves as coordinator for the Friends of the Library, was introduced by the club's president, Mrs. Marjory Dobson.

"Our overall goal is to make the Hancock County community more aware of the many services our three libraries have to offer," Pilet said adding, "The library system is made possible through funds allocated by the Board of Supervisors and the cities of Waveland and Bay St. Louis."

"Our libraries are not just warehouses for books," Pilet said, and she enumerated fiction, non fiction, periodicals, large print books, talking books, records for both adults and children, the children's libraries were there is a Story Hour, crafts, and attractive displays.

Also mentioned was the copying machine service, research assistance, microfiche, and the bicentennial display case where a new display is placed every month. "I know of no other library where displays are changed so frequently," Pilet pointed out.

Explaining her duties, Pilet said because of exceptionally fine cooperation with committee members and the library staff a splendid program is scheduled each month from September through May.

About 200 newsletters go out monthly to friends to alert them about the programs and give other pertinent information.

"Meetings are always open to all interested persons," Pilet said, and explained they were scheduled for the first Thursday in each month at 7:30 p.m. in the main branch in Bay St. Louis, using the Ulman Street entrance where parking facilities are available.

Advance notices of the programs are always printed in The Sea Coast Echo.

Pilet said programs for the upcoming season have been confirmed:

—September's speaker will be Leo Seal who recently visited China's mainland and will discuss the purpose and observations on this trip;

—November's program will be on Iran, that ancient country's arts and customs. Beth Elkins who lived in Iran for several years will also display many items she collected while there.

—In November the well-known oceanographer Stewart Nelson will present a program covering little-known facts about sea creatures.

—December's schedule includes a choral group from Our Lady's Academy under the direction of Mary Howard and followed by Christmas decorations shown by Darleen Underwood.

—The Waveland Variety Players have promised a skit for January, and "What Everyone Should Know About Telephone Change-Overs" will be explained by a representative of South Central Bell.

—Ed. Scanlan will once again decorate the library for Mardi Gras and at the Feb. 2 meeting Olive McKenna will present an array of talent in her Musical Extravaganza.

—March attraction is the adult Bell Choir from the Methodist Church as well as Marcie Englemann's demonstration on aerobics.

—While not yet confirmed, it is expected that Judith Toups will accept an invitation in April to give a slide lecture on birding.

—The May meeting is reserved for installation of new coordinator and committee members. Awards, certificates of appreciation and any plaques earned will be distributed at the May meeting.

Pilet gave a name-dropping verbal bouquet to Gail Thames who heads the flower committee. Fresh flowers are placed by members of this committee in the library each month throughout the year.

A verbal orchid also went to Martha Van Peski who ably serves as communications and telephone committee coordinator.

A word of appreciation was extended to the Junior Auxiliary who will, in September, assume the duties of hostesses for the punch service which follows each monthly program.

"From our dues collected the Friends of The Library have paid for directional signs, given flags to two libraries, bought ash containers for the entrances of the libraries, and step-on trash baskets, also paid for refreshments and supplies such as napkins and cups, printed matter, stationery, postage, and made a cash gift as well as a tablecloth for use in the library," Pilet continued.

"These small tokens of our friendship and support help — but real help could come from our citizens," Pilet said, and added, "All three libraries operate on a very limited budget of $125,000 annually. Another $32,000 per year would amazingly increase the quantity and quality of services within our Hancock County Library System."

"Use your library for pleasure, for information, for convenience; and use your influence with city and county authorities to remember the needs for additional funds when planning their next budget," Pilet said.

Waveland Players slate final tryouts for 'Variety'

Final tryouts for the Waveland Players' Variety '83 will be conducted today at 3 p.m. at the Waveland Civic Center on Coleman Avenue.

Tryouts are directed by Ed. Scanlan and Jeanne-Marie Bell.

Variety '83 is to be "A Cavalcade of American Entertainment," spanning the years between the Gay 90's and the present.

Included in Scanlan's plans for the production are barbershop harmony, dances, and 40's big band number; gospel, folk, rock and roll, country western, and Broadway musical songs; a showboat group number, vaudeville burlesque skits and pantomime; circus numbers, old-time radio programs, comic strip characters, and original skits by Bell.

She had two completed and one still in-the-works as of Tuesday night.

Rehearsals for the show will start in July on Thursday nights and Sunday afternoons. The skits and non-musical numbers will be rehearsed in July; the musical numbers in August; with three or four rehearsals of all members before the show dates, which are Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, August 26, 27, and 28; and Friday and Saturday, September 2 and 3.

Kiln's Faith Assembly marking third anniversary

The pastor and congregation of Faith Assembly of God Church, Hwy. 43 and 603 in Kiln, are celebrating the third anniversary of the church with an eight-day revival today through next Sunday with evangelist T. R. Campbell of Franklin, Wis.

old-fashioned gospel preaching. Pastor Larry Bradley says "We at Faith Assembly of God appreciate what God has done for us over the past three years and we would like for you to come and celebrate with us the victories in Jesus."

Services each night at 7 p.m. and the Sunday service on June 19 will begin at 10 a.m.

"We at Faith Assembly of God would like to take this opportunity to express our gratitude and appreciation to all who have helped us over the last three years toward the completion of our new facility," said Bradley, "and may God's richest blessings be yours. We are looking forward with great anticipation to see you on this great day."

For every problem under the sun, there is a remedy or there is none. If there be one, seek 'til you find it; if there be none, never mind it!

Whoever the poet was who penned those words we know that he was wise concerning dealing with life's challenges. However I find that most of us don't have quite as strong an outlook in dealing with prob-blems and obstacles that get in our way. We often have trouble distinguishing between problems that are solvable and those that are not.

Reinhold Niebuhr wrote some very wise words which come under the 'wish I'd said that' category.

Lord give me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, the courage to change the things I can, and the wisdom to know the difference!

You see some problems that appear insolvable can be worked out with enough time and effort. While other problems not only resist every attempt to solve them; they grow worse with our efforts. It is this kind of problem that requires a change in our attitude, which necessitates reaching a rather high level of maturity.

Perhaps the biggest single waste of time that one can involve himself with is worry. Worry has yet to ever solve a problem. Concerning it Jesus spoke these words.

Seek first his Kingdom and his righteousness, and all these things will be added to you as well. Therefore do not worry about tomorrow, for tomorrow will worry about itself. Each day has enough trouble of its own. (Matthew 6:33)

One of my favorite little poems that I draw much strength from is one I read in a book by Charles Swindoll. And if you have any problems that you can't deal with perhaps you too will find strength and comfort in it.

Got any rivers you can't pass?

Any mountains you can't climb?

God specializes in things thought impossible.

He does the things others cannot do!

The 180,000 members of the LWML support projects entirely through their offerings saved in "mite boxes," contributing over $1 million each year. These "mites" have been used to build schools, churches and hospitals in many world stations such as Hong Kong, India and Nigeria; supported medical and rehabilitation programs, provide scholarships and training programs, purchased an airplane and funded a variety of other projects.

Examples of new projects on the ballot for the coming biennium include building a facility for the elderly in Brooklyn, purchasing a pickup truck for a missionary in Ghana, urban teacher counseling training, building a church and school in Alaska, and other proposals.

Mite projects are not considered the major part of the LWML member's service. One of the convention attractions will be a "Deeds Fair" where exhibits will feature service projects and offer ideas for new types of service activity.

"Cover the World with a Rainbow of Sweaters" is the theme of a special ingathering in which each delegate will bring from her home group a collection of sweaters designed for distribution to needy men, women and children all over the world.

Rhodes completes LSU School of Banking

Charley E. (Dusty) Rhodes II, assistant vice-president of Merchants Bank & Trust Co. in Bay St. Louis, is one of 400 bankers receiving graduation certificates June 3 from the School of Banking of the South at Louisiana State University.

This three-year program provides graduate level study of all aspects of banking, economics and related subjects.

Sponsored by 15 southern state bankers associations in cooperation with the Division of Continuing Education at LSU, the banking school required attendance on campus for three years, with extensive home study assignments between sessions.

The faculty consists of 125 bankers, business and professional leaders, and educators from all parts of the U.S.

Robert S. Gaddis, director of the school, said, "The sweeping changes now taking place in the delivery of financial services put renewed emphasis on the need for high quality banking education. We are rapidly moving into a new environment which will place a premium on the ability of commercial bankers to be flexible, innovative, and creative in serving the financial needs of our communities."

Gaddis is president of Commercial National Bank and Trust Company in Laurel.

During their three years at the School of Banking, students receive 180 hours of classroom instruction, 30 hours of reviews, planned evening study, and written final examinations at the end of each session.

POINT OF LAW

Mississippi State Bar

(Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some legal rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your rights.)

Q: An oil drilling company is setting up a rig one-fourth of a mile from my house on my neighbor's land. They moved the rig right in over my land, laid a water line and knocked a fence down. The drilling company did not talk to me about access at all. What are my rights and am I entitled to get paid for the damages?

A: Generally speaking, if you have not leased your land to the oil drilling company, you would be entitled to receive payment for the damages and even stop the oil company from conducting operations on your land.

However, if you have leased to the oil company, most leases give the oil company the right to construct roads, lay water lines, etc., on your land even if the drilling activities are conducted on adjacent lands.

Even though the oil company has these rights under the lease, most leases also provide that the lessee will pay for damages caused by its operations.

It is the usual practice of oil companies in Mississippi to settle surface damages in advance of conducting the oil drilling activities.

Q: We did not get a birth certificate at my daughter's birth. Now, years later, I drew one up myself including the time she was born, length, weight and what she was named. I signed the document and had the doctor who delivered her sign it. Is this document legal?

A: No, it is not a legal document, but it is possible to obtain a legal birth certificate through the State Board of Health in Jackson. The Health Department will issue a valid birth certificate provided you submit satisfactory proof of your age or birthday.

As a last resort, there is a procedure whereby you can obtain a valid birth certificate by filing a petition in the chancery court of the county of your residence.
